OFFICERS FIND WOMEN IN SUNDAY NIGHT BOOZE RAID

WINE, WOMEN AND "HOOTCH" ARE TAKEN IN SUNDAY RAID

Sunday night the soft drink hall of Tony Dias in Rodco was raided and wine, whiskey and women were the loot. Complaints have been made in the past to Dias by the property owners of the property adjoining and across the street but there has been no abatement of the nuisance. Sunday night women were seen entering the place and the noise of riotous drinking and debauch became louder and louder.

Finally one woman of the town attracted by the screams and cries of the drunken women in the place called the deputy sheriff of the town, Frank Bayer, who investigated. He said he found conditions simply rotten and too dirty to describe. Passing out he called Jerry McDonald, constable of Pinole, who came and arrested the proprietor of the place Tony Dias. The women were allowed to leave, as were the men who were in the place.

Dias was refused a license in Richmond not very long ago on technical grounds because of his former record.

Newton must serve a similar term in prison and pay a fine of $5,000.

He-Flapper is More Deadly Than Female is Co-Eds' Verdict

BERKELEY, Feb. 13.—"A young woman too old to be spanked and too young to be kissed"—such is the definition of a flapper as given forth to the world this morning by the "Dill Pickle," an annual publication of the women of the university, devoted principally to poking fun at college men.

Printed in vivid green ink, the "Dill" handles male students with unglued hands. Prominent women students and professors are also "dipped in the brine" of the pickled sheet.

The "he-flapper," declared to be much more deadly than the female of the species is announced as discovered on the college campus. "He is impossible of definition," declare the women editors. "To our mind the female flapper is a demure daisy compared with the male of the species."

Called a "Snob."
R. L. Ingram, editor of "Pelican," university comic sheet, who recently declared that all co-eds liked to be kissed and were eager for "caveman tactics," is labeled by the objecting co-eds as a "snob." "Kisses help put snob on map in entire U. S.," is the heading given to an arraignment of Ingram.

Today's issue of the "Dill" is announced as a "reformed" edition, the first to be put out by the newly formed branch of the Theta Sigma Phi Journalistic honor society. Despite its "reformed" tendencies campus societies and personages find themselves sprinkled generously with the "Dill's grime."

Here Is Test

The "Dill" announces a new psychological test for students with the following questions:

Have you ever lied; have you ever smoked; have you ever sworn; have you ever dressed immodestly; have you ever danced improperly; have you ever kissed; have you ever been on a queening party, and have you ever done anything you are ashamed to tell your mother?

POULTRY MEN ARE FLOURISHING

A growth from three members to 167 in a few months time is a record of achievement to which the Richmond Poultry Association point with satisfaction.

The association met in Pythian Castle last night and added five new members to their roster. They are D. L. Gresham, W. L. Renoud, Walter Conway, H. J. Lock and H. A. Stahl.

In the absence of President W. R. Fuller, who is sick, the chair was held by F. M. Weber.

Interesting talks on incubators were given by H. A. Stahl and R. T. Morrison.

On February 27, R. B. Eason, of the University of California, will be the guest of the poultrymen and will make a talk of interest to chicken growers. His talk will be illustrated by the use of slides and charts.

E. M. TILDEN IS AGAIN HEAD OF ELKS HALL ASSOCIATION

E. M. Tilden last night was re-elected president of the Richmond Elks' Hall Association at the annual meeting of the board of directors held in the club rooms.

Other officers chosen are Joseph P. Brooks, vice-president, W. T. Helms, secretary and Edward M. Downer, treasurer.

The directors chosen for the ensuing term are W. T. Helms, Don Carpenter, Dr. M. L. Fernandez, Dr. C. L. Abbott, J. P. Brooks, E. M. Tilden, M. A. Hays, George H. Fredenburg and E. M. Downer. New members are Brooks, Carpenter and Hays.

The affairs of the association were found to be in satisfactory condition. It was determined that the work of repairing the club rooms following the disastrous fire will be carried forward with all reasonable speed.

Elks' Black Face Artists Are Real Talented Troupe

One of the cleverest amateur theatrical aggregations in California today is the Shiloh Shines minstrels of the Richmond Lodge of Elks.

These fellows have assembled some really worth while talent, and have developed their men to a high degree. Their monologues, dialogues and humorous symposiums contributed largely to the gaiety of nations.

On February 25 the Shines are going to Fresno by special invitation from the Fresno Elks, and will put on their mock ritual and other mummery for the bills of the raise city. They have journeyed as far south as Los Angeles, and as far north as Grass Valley. Eighteen cities and towns in California have been visited by them.

The troupe is composed of J. M. Stewart, Fred Brown, Harry J. Hennessy, Chas. Friend, Charley Parker, Frank Tiller, Art Irwin, Charley Drake, Ed Dale, Don Stewart and Albert Soleum. Soleum is property man.

Donny Shaw is organist, and Charles F. Donnelly is manager.

The Shines also have been invited to visit Sacramento.

Record-Herald Scores Big News Beat; Hours Ahead of Other Papers

Newspaper men will not have to be told that the Record-Herald scored a distinctive "beat" or "scoop" in the Sunday edition when it carried the story of the murder and suicide at San Pablo.

But the Record-Herald feels that it may be pardoned for calling the attention of the lay readers who comprise the bulk of its clientele to what it feels was one of the biggest pieces of news that has "broken" in the East Bay territory for some time.

The Record-Herald was the only newspaper in California that published the story Sunday.

The San Francisco papers featured the story on MONDAY morning. Other newspapers in this territory carried the story in their Monday afternoon editions.

The material and essential facts of the unfortunate double tragedy were given to Record-Herald readers Sunday morning.

This paper believes that the function of a newspaper in a city like Richmond is to give the local news while it is fresh.

The Record-Herald will maintain this policy.

Valentine Night At Elks' Club

This evening will be Valentine night at the meeting of the Richmond lodge of Elks. There will be a musical program, features and movies. Valentines will be distributed to all those present, and appropriate selections have been made.

Reports were read by the superintendents of the beginners, primary and senior departments.

Miss Pauline Little was elected pianiste for the ensuing year.

Seven teachers and one hundred and fifteen students were on the sick list.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Gladys Baker of Chico to Clarence Dolan of Richmond was made by Mrs. W. W. Baker, mother of the former, at an afternoon affair this past week. Miss Baker is a graduate nurse and is in charge of the Enloe Hospital in Chico and her fiancé is a popular employee of the Standard Oil company.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Enjoyed Elaborate Program

An initiatory Degree will be conferred on a class of candidates next Monday evening by Eclipse Lodge No. 403, F. O. O. F.

A delightful social evening was enjoyed by Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and their families last night in Odd Fellows' Hall.

Marvel, accompanied by Brother Hunt; piano solo, "Angelus," by Miss Carpenter; recitation, Miss Margaret Shea; snake dance, fancy dance and vandy dance by Miss Velma Hutchins; song, Brother Henson, accompanied by Brother Hunt; piano solo, "Wychoff Waltz," Miss Mitchell.

Wright Insane When He Shot Wife And Self It is Believed

Mrs. Emily Wright, slain in the double tragedy at San Pablo Sunday morning will be buried this afternoon.

The funeral will be held from the mortuary chapel of Wilson & Kratzer at 2 o'clock.

The neighbors of Woodcraft, of which the unhappy woman was a respected member, will have charge of the funeral.

The remains of Samuel M. Wright whose suicide quickly followed the slaying of his wife probably will be shipped to Fresno for interment.

Act of Insane Man Belief.
The opinion prevails generally that the tragedy was the act of an insane man.

There has been nothing to shed any great light upon the cause or causes leading up to the slaying.

Sympathy for Young Son

Profound sympathy is expressed in all quarters for the only son, Lawrence Wright, eighteen year old high school boy.

Young Wright was the first person to learn of the tragedy which took both parents from him. It was he who first bobbed the bloody spectacle of his mother lying stark upon the floor when he returned home from a dance. He it was whose eyes first beheld the picture of his father crumpled and mortally wounded.

Mrs. Wright is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Hines, of Richmond, and by a brother, William H. Troutman, of Oregon.

She was a member of the Neighbors of Woodcraft and of the Mooseheart Legion.

Wright is reported to have several brothers and sisters in the San Joaquin Valley.

CALFEE WILL NOT COMMIT HIMSELF

"I have not yet made up my mind to run for the assembly," Tom N. Calfee told the Record-Herald last night when questioned on the subject of the story which appeared in Sunday's paper.

Calfee admitted that he "likes politics."

Calfee Good Mixer

Calfee has a suave and urbane manner; he is what the politicians call a good mixer. This quality which has helped Hiram Johnson and Will Hays and many of the country's most successful politicians, Calfee is said to inherit from his father.

No Statement From Carlson.
The Record-Herald endeavored to get in touch with Tom Carlson to ascertain from him how he feels about the suggestion which came from Crockett that he might try for the assembly.

Carlson could not be located last night.

The statement that was reproduced from the Crockett Signal that assemblyman is the only office in the county conceded to Richmond promises to arouse ambitions in the breast of other Richmond men who look covetously to the county seat where numberless good berths are possibly available.

Heine Kanneker has not been seen since the story in Sunday's Record-Herald.

SEAL RING IS IDENTITY CLUE FOR MAN HIT BY S. P. TRAIN

MARTINEZ, Feb. 13.—Struck by a Southern Pacific train near Vallejo Junction early today, an unidentified man, about middle age, lies at the point of death at the Martinez hospital. Hospital attendants state the injured man has little chance for recovery and has not regained consciousness.

The accident occurred about 7 o'clock this morning. The body was found near the track and was brought to Martinez on a special train. The injured man is about 50 years old, about five feet, ten inches tall, of medium weight, and was dressed in a good suit with an army overcoat. A seal ring with the initials "E. S." was the only clue to identification. A watch and chain, with a fish charm, were found in his clothes. The man is slightly gray and wears a mustache.

VETS OF FOREIGN WARS ORGANIZING

There is going to be a program of good speeches. Nelson G. Walburn, of Vallejo and Richmond, commander of the Vallejo post, American Legion, is being requested to be on hand and make one of his characteristic talks. City Clerk Eugene K. Sturgis, of Oakland, also is being urged to attend the meeting.

There is going to be a good army feed and some other interesting features. Captain Ben W. Spier is hoping there will be a large gathering of overseas soldiers; men who fought in the World war and prior wars.

Jack Hoxie in "The Man From Nowhere" Coming to Macdonald

When Jack Hoxie is seen at the Macdonald Theater Monday and Tuesday in "A Man From Nowhere," he will have playing opposite him a personable young lady who has been lured from the ranks of the sawdust ring to take her place as a leading woman in the silent drama in the person of Miss Panzy Porter. This is not Miss Porter's first appearance as a screen actress, she having had the leading role opposite Eddie Polo in his serial "The King of the Circus." The producer, "The Producer of 'A Man From Nowhere,'" Ben Wilson, saw her work and was so favorably impressed with it that he engaged her to play the leading feminine role in Jack Hoxie's first feature.

Ladies! Secret to Darken Gray Hair

Bring back color, gloss and youthfulness with Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur.

Common garden sage, brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray streaked and faded hair beautifully bright and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully off glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger.

'The Brimming Cup' Reviewed By Club

Mrs. C. R. Alexander reviewed "The Brimming Cup" by Dorothy Canfield Fisher in a most thorough and interesting way on Monday afternoon before a large audience at the meeting of the Richmond Club, and many expressions of pleasure were heard at the conclusion of her review.

Among the out-of-town visitors present was Mrs. J. W. Mills of Boise, Idaho, who is the house guest of Mrs. Tarr Calfee, and upon request she gave two dialect recitations that were greatly enjoyed. They were "Katrina's Visit to New York" and "Peanut Pietro," the latter by Kayem Grier.

Mrs. W. H. Cavine of Richmond was also a guest of the Club.

Funeral Today for Mrs. M. B. Tucker

She was a native of Iowa, and besides her husband, who is an employee of the Standard Oil Company, she is survived by a daughter, Fay Tucker, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Smith of Alberta, Canada, and three brothers, William and Hugh Brown of South Dakota and Roy B. Brown of Minnesota.

American Ships Rush Food Supplies and Seed Grain to Hungry Hordes in the Famine Regions of Stricken Russia

THE work of rushing food supplies and seed grain to starving Russia is now well under way.

These pictures help to tell the story of how America has come to the assistance of the sufferers in the great Volga Basin, where drought destroyed the crops, and caused hundreds of thousands of otherwise happy, well-to-do Russian men, women and children to die in all directions: to escape the menace of starvation.

The large view above shows the work of loading bags of grain for shipment to Russia under the direction of the American Relief Administration, appointed by President Hoover under the act appropriating $20,000,000 for Russian relief. The insert shows the steamer Northern Star at its Hoboken dock, taking on a cargo. This vessel was one of the first to leave America with relief supplies for Russia.

The Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief, whose members are Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Administration; ex-Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana; Don Livingston, representative of the Farm Bureau and State Agricultural Commissioner for South Dakota; Edgar Rickard of the American Relief Administration; and E. M. Fleisch, treasurer of the U. S. Grain Corporation, has charge of the buying of all supplies under the $20,000,000 appropriation. These supplies, upon arrival in Russia, are administered by the American Relief Administration.

The Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief is bending every effort towards facilitating the speedy shipment of the needed commodities to the famine regions. Large quantities of supplies, grown and purchased in America, are being sent as fast as ships can be chartered and loaded.

Secretary Hoover has announced that 3,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped as of January 25th, and instructions given to rush the shipment of further cargoes. Out of the $20,000,000 appropriation, the Commission had at that time expended more than half of it for the purchase and transportation of grain.

It is the purpose of the ARA, under this arrangement, to feed every hungry child that can be reached in the famine districts. The child-feeding program is being extended as rapidly as possible. The feeding of adults will be started immediately upon the arrival of these supplies and will include as many as can be reached.

Soldier Slang To Be Preserved To Enrich Language

Slang is as much a part and parcel of the United States Army and Navy as the regulations or the ration.

Old regulars learned the value and the inimitability of such words as "hot tail," meaning a dishonorable discharge; "the mill," soldier for jail; "over the hill," meaning to desert the service; "chow," which is soldier for food, and a thousand other equally useful terms that perplexed the "daisy."

Of course the World War, with its modern methods and devices of conducting "civilized warfare," saw the coinage of slang terms.

It remains for the stolid Britisher to take the initiative in preserving to posterity the picturesque words and phrases which Tommy Atkins, the Polli and the Yanks made part of their code "over there."

The British Museum is fostering a dictionary which will include the strange and lurid language that the fellows learned to use.

The secretary of the Imperial War Museum has issued a request for notes on the subject giving the slang terms used in the British army, together with the meaning of the words, and, if possible their derivation.

Much of this slang was a legacy of the old regular soldier at Mons and originated for the most part in

He's A Richmond Man

And What He Says Will Be Read With Interest by Richmond People

Readers of the Record-Herald all know F. Roberts, deputy sheriff, of 612 Tenth street, Richmond. When he tells an experience simply for your benefit.

There's no room for doubt. Way experiment with such evidence to go by?

If your kidneys need help Profit by Mr. Roberts' experience. Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

What other kidney remedy offers Richmond proof of merit?

F. Roberts, deputy sheriff, 542 Tenth St., Richmond, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are not a new remedy to me. I first used them when on a trip to England a few years ago. Shortly after arriving, I had an attack of kidney trouble. I had severe backache and soreness over my kidneys. The action of my kidneys was irregular. Doan's Kidney Pills soon fixed me up in good shape and rid me of the backache. I have come to depend on them. If I have the least sign of kidney trouble, they are sure to give me prompt relief."

MRS. J. J. NOAH IN HOSPITAL. The many friends of Mrs. J. J. Noah, 812 Virginia street, will regret to hear of her serious illness in Craven hospital.

The most popular and the most romantic and sentimental slang term of the lot undoubtedly was "blighty." That is now almost universally used. It is derived from the Hindustani and means home.

In his request for data, the secretary very naively suggests "that, of course, many of the army terms are not polite and hardly fit for publication."

As a rule, however, the slang of the British Tommy has a much more wholesome derivation than most of the French "argot les tranches."

Some of the examples are as follows:

Air-flappers—Army signallers.

Archie—An anti-aircraft gun.

(Probably a corruption of aircraft.)

Bully—Bully-beef, tinned corned beef. (A relic of South Africa.)

Blighty—Home, England. (Hindustani).

Bynt—A young woman. (Arabic.)

Cushy—Soft. (Derived from cushion.)

A cushy wound is a slight wound. A cushy job is a task which can be performed sitting down.

Jerry—A German soldier.

Leaf—Leave of absence. (Corruption of leave.)

Monjy—Bread, or something to eat. (Corruption of the French.)

Posh—Ultra smart.

Padre—An army chaplain.

Quarter Bloke—The quartermaster.

Square Pushing—To walk out with a sweetheart in a soldier's best uniform.

Sapper—An engineer.

Swanking—Four-fushing.

Snips—The regimental tailor.

Wangle—To achieve an object by doubtful means. "Wangling leaf" means to get leave of absence by giving false reason.

Uric Acid in Meat Clogs the Kidneys

Take a glass of Salts if your Back Hurts or Bladder bothers you—Drink more water

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or stick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.—Adv.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Occupying a dilapidated shack in the Silent City, a squatter settlement near the New York, Polly Hopkins lives with her father, small Jerry, and an old woman, Granny Hope. On an adjacent farm, Oscar Bennett, prosperous farmer, is a neighbor. He is secretly married to Evelyn Robertson, supposedly wealthy girl of the neighborhood. Polly alone knows their secret. Marcus MacKenzie, who owns the ground the squatters occupy, is their determined enemy. Polly overhears a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger, in which the former avows his intention of driving the squatters from his land. The stranger sympathizes with the squatters, and earns Polly's gratitude.

CHAPTER II.—Evelyn Robertson discovers from her mother that they are not rich, as she supposed, but practically living on the bounty of Robert Percival, Evelyn's cousin.

CHAPTER III.—Polly learns from Evelyn that the sympathetic stranger is Robert Percival. Evelyn charges Polly with a message to Bennett, telling him she can give him no more money, and urging him to be patient. She already bitterly regrets her infatuation with and marriage to the ignorant farmer.

For some time after her departure the girl and the man were silent. This was the first time in Marc's life that his heart had been really touched by a woman, and in spite of his years and experience, he was almost as bashful as a young boy.

At length their eyes met, and the girl's lowered, while the color mounted in a flood to her hair.

The man was by her side in an instant. He had read in the shy, retreating glance what he longed to see.

"Evelyn! I—I—believe you care for me, I really believe you do," he exclaimed. "You do, sweet?" he demanded, his voice trembling.

"Yes," whispered Evelyn.

"Now, isn't it strange," asked Marcus, after they took up their conversation again, "that while I was gone I always thought of you, but not just like this. Honey, girl, how long have you loved me? Before—before today?"

"I think always," confessed Evelyn, with a growing flush.

What a fortunate man Marcus MacKenzie considered himself just at that moment. He had won the prettiest girl in Ithaca; and she loved him.

"And to think I only came home last night," he exulted. "This time yesterday you were free, my Eve. At this moment no power can take you away from me."

Dreadful recollections of Oscar intruded upon Evelyn's new happiness. Oh, if she only had the courage to tell Marcus! Would he keep on loving her and help her to get free, or would he—She glanced into his face. There were upon it the marks of breeding, of pride in himself, his wealth, position and power. She knew how highly he regarded the conventions of society. If she should disclose to him the secret of her marriage to the farmer, he would see nothing but the blot upon her and turn away in disgust. No, she couldn't tell him. Despair overwhelmed her and made MacKenzie's arms burdensome. With an effort she smiled faintly and withdrew from him.

"I don't want to let you go, darling," he laughed. "It seems like a beautiful dream!"

Eve wished passionately that she were at liberty to make the dream come true.

"You are my beloved," asserted Marcus, and with the girl's whispered "yes," he allowed her to leave the room.

Evelyn went immediately to her mother's apartment and, opening the door, slipped in and sank down upon the floor at Mrs. Robertson's side.

"I've told him I'd marry him," she said, with trembling lips. "Mother dear, oh, please, mother dear, don't you think you could borrow some money from Robert for me? I must have it. After I'm married to Marcus, I could get it all back for you. I know I could. I've just got to have a lot of money, and you can't expect me to ask Marcus."

Mrs. Robertson drew away with a shiver.

"If you so forget yourself, your family and your name as to do such a thing, I should disown you, Evelyn," she said, finally in her tones.

Evelyn rose wearily. She could imagine the heights of her mother's scorn if she discovered the actual situation. She felt that she would rather tell MacKenzie than the unsympathetic, frowning woman in the chair.

"There's no use, mother, in trying to talk to you," she muttered. "I'll manage some way, though only God knows how."

Mrs. Robertson took up her book and gazed sternly at her daughter over the top of it.

"Very well, Evelyn," she said, ungraciously. "You're of age. If that's the way you feel about it, there's nothing more to be said."

Whereupon the speaker began to read, and a very hopeless girl crept out of the room.

When Evelyn was repairing the ravages made by her emotions, Polly Hopkins crept into the Robertson garden. Her fear of Mrs. Robertson was mingled with a thrilling happiness. She had seen Granny Hope and was Jerry eat the fresh eggs. Daddy's promise would keep him out of trouble with Old Marc; and the beautiful stranger would help them!

She gave a piercing little trill, the signal she had always used to call Evelyn from the house. Almost at once a figure stepped from the door to the porch directly in front of her, and, terrified, she shrunk back among the vines and clung there.

Silhouetted against the bright light was Robert Percival. He stood gazing straight ahead of him at the dark driveway, but turned when Evelyn appeared beside him. Polly heard the murmur of their voices, that was all. They then disappeared into the house. Evelyn laughingly pushing the soldier ahead of her. Quickly the girl came out again; and Polly could hear her swift, coming breaths as she ran softly down the steps.

"Shush," hissed Polly Hopkins. "Lordy, I was scared to death some one'd catch me."

"Pollyop," questioned Evelyn anxiously. "What'd he say? Was he angry?" Their heads were very close together, and Polly gave the message in a low tone.

"He wants you to come to Granny Hope's but at nine o'clock tonight, an' I guess you best do it. He's as mad as ever a man can be."

"I'm afraid," Evelyn wailed. "I'm terribly afraid, Polly dear."

All the sympathy in Polly's heart came to sudden life.

"I reckon you be," she returned. "But you've got to get up your spunk an' go. Oscar'd just as soon come bustin' right in your house here, I guess. If you don't. You come along, an' at nine o'clock I'll hike over an' get in the hut too. Say, why can't you talk just a little nicer to him? Granny Hope's got a Bible, an' it says when a feller hurts you, speak kind of soft back, an' he won't have nothin' more to say. Hist! What's that noise? Scoot!"

Before Evelyn could say another word, the squatter girl slipped away among the shadows. The other, although surrounded with every luxury, went wretchedly up the steps and, forcing a smile to her lips, passed into the music room.

Billy-goat Hopkins had blinked many times before his little mistress came home. Larry Bishop had gone to his lonely hut, and Daddy Hopkins and Granny Hope were dozing in front of the stove.

In nervous tension Polly watched the clock crawl along toward the hour of the meeting between Oscar and Evelyn. About a quarter to nine, she stole out of doors.

By familiar paths, slipping past a shanty here and there, Pollyop came at length upon a lonely shack set on a point by itself. She went around to the back, opened the door, and once within the room touched a match to a small candle which she had taken from her pocket, and sat down quietly.

When Oscar Bennett stepped into the hut, he uttered an oath. He was not expecting to see Polly Hopkins.

"My lady won't come, eh?" he demanded gruffly.

"Oh, she's comin' all right," answered Polly, "but she was afraid. So I came along to see she got home safe."

A loud laugh fell from Bennett's lips.

"You're a clever kid, Pollyop," he said, more affably. "Cunning as a weasel, d—d if you ain't! Sit down. I won't bite you!"

Polly squatted on the floor by the old table, and Oscar eased himself gingerly down onto a rickety bench.

Cabinet Member Blames Parents For Eye Defects

Copyrighted by Keystone View Co.

"LARGE numbers of children are suffering from defective vision simply because of lack of careful attention by their parents primarily and by school authorities." Such is the statement of Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace in the course of an interview just issued upon the question of eye conservation. Mr. Wallace believes that "every good citizen must be interested in any movement which has for its purpose giving attention to defective vision."

Enlarging upon the question of parental neglect, he said: "This neglect is not necessarily conscious, as I happen to know from personal experience. Many years ago I discovered purely by accident that a little girl very dear to me had reached the age of ten years without seeing the leaves on the trees. When vision was corrected by the use of properly fitted glasses a new world was opened to her.

"It is not surprising that studies in our industries disclose the fact that an astonishingly large percentage of the young workers are handicapped by defective vision. Every effort looking toward the prevention and remedy of this condition is certainly in the interest both of the individual and of the nation."

Bebe Daniels Star In Film Today at T. & D. Theater

Several happy reunions marked the making of "Nancy From Nowhere," the Realart picture starring lovely Bebe Daniels, which will be shown at the Richmond T. & D. Theater today.

In the first place, Miss Daniels again came under the direction of Chester M. Franklin, the director who made her very first starring picture, "You Never Can Tell," which was a great popular success. Since that time, Mr. Franklin has directed others of the Realart stars, and was sent East to make several pictures.

Also in the cast of this picture is Edward Martindel. Mr. Martindel played a leading role in "You Never Can Tell," which was one of his earliest appearances in pictures. He made his professional start as a bass singer in concert and comic opera, with such stars as Fritz Scheff and Emma Trentini. After "You Never Can Tell," he played again with the fair Bebe in "Ducks and Drakes," and "Nancy From Nowhere" is his third in her support.

The leading man in "Nancy From Nowhere" is Edward Sutherland, a nephew of Blanche and Julia Ring, and recently seen in a number of Paramount pictures, such as "The Round-Up" and "The Witching Hour." Myrtle Stedman, who plays the part of Mrs. Halliday, has recently been leading woman for Wm. S. Hart and for Hayakawa. Vera Lewis played with Miss Daniels in "One Wild Week." The cast is completed by James Gordon, Albert Lee, Helen Holly and Dorothy Hagen.

He Will Help to Feed Famine Stricken Russians

AMONG the men who will have charge of purchasing, shipping and distributing food supplies and seed grain under the $20,000,000 appropriation for relief in the Russian famine districts, is E. M. Flesch of St. Louis, treasurer of the U. S. Grain Corporation, who had been appointed a member of the Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief.

The Commission, which was designated by President Harding to handle this appropriation in conjunction with the American Relief Administration, is now engaged in the work of rushing supplies to Russia.

In addition to Mr. Flesch the Commission consists of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce; Don Livingston, representative of the U. S. Farm Bureau and State Agricultural Commissioner for South Dakota; former Governor James E. Goodrich of Indiana, and Edgar Rickard, director of the American Relief Administration. The Commission has its offices at 42 Broadway, New York City.

The Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief is sending every effort towards facilitating the speedy shipment of the needed commodities to the famine regions. Large quantities of supplies, grown and purchased in America are being sent as fast as American ships can be chartered and loaded.

Secretary Hoover has announced that 3,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped as of January 25th and instructions given to rush the shipment of further crops.

TIME TO BREATHE

"What's the idea, George? I see there are two new men in your office today. Business must be picking up at a terrific rate to take on new men at that speed."

"Oh, it is picking up a little, Jim, but the main idea is that the boss has seen a little light at last. You know I told you we were so busy we hardly had time to eat. Well, when the mayor, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations started up this idea of finding more work for the unemployed our boss took to the idea just like a duck to water. Now the rest of us have a little breathing space. In fact, I had time this noon to look around a bit for some new clothes. I want to get a suit, but the ones I like seem pretty high yet."

"Well, George, I am going to tell you about a place where I got my overcoat and am going to get a suit, Cherry! They are at 538 13th St. Good values and you can buy on credit without paying a cent down for the next thirty days."

Fiery, Itchy Eczema Healed Right Up By Applying Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions, such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.
